Bryn Mawr College continues to hold its historic May Day celebration, which is a major tradition held annually on the Sunday after the last week of classes. The day features medieval festivities including a breakfast of strawberries and cream, Morris dancers, maypole dancing, and a parade. Bryn Mawr College +2

- 2025 Event: The 2025 celebration was held on May 4, featuring students in traditional all-white outfits and a final Step Sing, according to the Bryn Mawr College May Day 2025 event page and Bi-College News coverage.
- Key Traditions: Celebrations usually include seniors waking up the college president, class breakfasts, and a parade from Rockefeller Arch to Merion Green.
- Alumnae Involvement: Alumnae/i often join in by attending on-campus events or hosting gatherings in their respective cities, as seen in the Bryn Mawr College Alumnae/i Instagram post.

The tradition remains a staple of the student experience for creating a sense of community.
